

THE FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT LAW TRAINING GROUP

Presents

Managing Federal Employee Accountability A Training Event for Federal Supervisors (and Those Who Advise Them)

August 1-5, 2016

Ala Moana Hotel, Honolulu

This FELTG training seminar covers all of the most important topics federal supervisors – and those who advise them – need to know about the relevant law, policy, strategy and best practices related to HR skills in the federal workforce including:

- Performance and conduct
- Supervising unionized employees
- Leave abuse
- Equal Employment Opportunity
- Communication and management skills

See the reverse side for details.

Program Instructors

William Wiley is an attorney with over 35 years of experience, and serves as President and co-founder of the Federal Employment Law Training Group. He is former Chief Counsel to the Chairman of the MSPB and Chief of Staff to the General Counsel of the FLRA, and now focuses his private practice on representing agencies before the MSPB, EEOC, and OSC.

Deborah Hopkins is the Executive Director of the Federal Employment Law Training Group and has presented training sessions to thousands of federal supervisors and attorneys over the past 9 years. She has a J.D. from the University of the District of Columbia - David A. Clarke School of Law. Before she began her legal career, Ms Hopkins spent 5 years as a Professor of Communications and Technology.

Daily Agenda

Monday, August 1

Accountability for Performance and Conduct

Tuesday, August 2

Supervising in a Unionized Environment

Wednesday, August 3

Managing Employee Leave Issues

Thursday, August 4

The Supervisor's Role in EEO

Friday, August 5

Management and Communication Skills

Visit www.feltg.com, email info@feltg.com, or call 844.at.FELTG (283.3584) for detailed agendas and registration information.